What memories of other days of opulence and luxury lie behind the hard eyes of the yet-young woman you noticed at the night-club? What withered the very soul of that sweet, sad-eyed girl who sat opposite you in the train? How did that man with the strong, kind face get those nes, that haunted and harried look?

No human life is ever lived alone. Somewhere, sooner or later soul meets soul in the firmament of life. The smouldering fire of love bursts into flames of passion. For one brief moment two human stars flare up unnoticed by the sleeping world. Then all is blackness!

Another link has been forged in the chain of human experience. Another case has been entered on the docket of Life. Another curtain has risen and fallen in the human tragedy.

Are only the actors to know the plot? Is no audience to profit by it? That is where "True Romances" comes in. Its pages give you an opportunity to watch the drama of life and love that unfolds itself daily around us. Here is youth, innocent, inexperienced. Here is a rosy idyll into which some ruthless stranger stalks. What would you do under like circumstances? What will you do? For it is only a matter of time before your number is called in the grab bag of Life.

Better Than Calomel

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the fesult of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel somplaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spir's 15s and 3c.

INSTALLMENT III.

TH EGHOSE WALKS OFF. Here there was no crowd-just three people in the cavelike refreshmen of an ancient Italian rock village. There were the little tables with little chairs attending them, a roughly ved and sanded floor, a counter behind which a multitude of household neces-des outflanked a few bottles of wine, strings of dried onions hanging from low ceiling, a disconsolate hen pecking at the sawdust-and beautiful ady Shale seated at one of the little tables opposite a man who looked not ike a pirate out of "Treasure Island." Yet a handsome pirate, as Mimi was obliged to confess at the first sight of him.

The couple was in the midst of lunch, which consisted of bowls of steaming soup, black bread, cheese, and a bottle of pale yellow wine. Evidently they were on a walking tour. Bulging haversacks lay on the floor beside them. Lady Shale was dressed in a fashion affected by the wives of self-conscious sta. A gay bandana handkerchief swathed her glorious head; she wore ton smock and string soled canvas sandals.

The man was in keeping with her. He had no hat; his clothes looked like nothing on earth. In appearance he was more of a vagabond than either Uncle Charley or Beauty Bill. But he had flashing teeth, a tangled shock of plack hair, and a smile that forgave him everything he might need to be

Mimi did not hesitate. Here was the answer to her brooding of the last few days. One need not go to the length of calling it prayer. Here, certainly, Quite Engaging

He's having a short vacation before starting work on "Behind the Front." If Mimi had hestitated for so much as the fraction of a moment, she would have been defeated. Lady Shale was of a mind to defeat her. Lady Shale had no wish to be discovered alive and well; no wish to be found here in this primitive, almost savagely old mountain village in the company of a handsome, black eyed pirate.

South Seas," starring Gilda Gray.

Our tired, worried little wretch of a Mimi made, in fact, two discoverie at once, the second one being that Lady Shale, that magnificent, golder

d woman who had queened it over London and Grantwick and been a present of the moon and stars besides—that Lady Shale had flown to dark corner, of her own choice, and that she was, by nature, herself a

Upon Mimi's entrance, of course, all three exchanged glances, but Beatrice e was not as quick as Mimi. Lady Shale might be a pirate at heart, but she had never before been obliged to live by her wits. Mimi had had rable practice at that game.

Mimi advanced firmly, but with an air of shrinking, a manner which her ned dismayed, but pleased. A quivering, smiling little lady of fashionable don who could scarcely believe that what her blue eyes told her was true. "Why, it's Lady Shale! B-but—then you're not dead? It was all in the rs. That you'd died of Mediterranean fever and were buried in Alassio.

"O, yes," said Lady Shale. There was a touch of great weariness in her voice; a faraway look in the gray eyes. "You were so kind in helping Mrs. Keel and me at the duchess' bazaar. I would be ungrateful not to remember you. But it would be equally kind if you failed to remember me. . . Glorgio, shall we be going? Have you paid the bill?"

She turned once again to Mimi before they left.

"I'm awfully sorry, Mrs ——? I'm afraid I've forgotten your name.
But I really am dead, you know. Dead as a door nail. And some day it may ur to you that only the dead are happy.

The pirate flashed Mimi a gleaming smile as the two of them passed out walking sticks and rucksacks. "Only dead to London and Grantwick," he said. "It makes nothing, madame." The last sentence he spoke in French. imi laughed softly to herself after their retreating backs.

So Grantwick meant nothing. It meant so little that Adrian Shale had aged in some incomprehensible way to proclaim his beloved wife dead. till, with money, unlimited money, one can do pretty well anything. There as something behind this, something in which the divorce courts were Mimi ate her sandwiches, drank her coffee, and finally came down to the waiting car. She had not seen the picture of "the donkey who marches like a man," probably never would see it, but she could talk about it as though the had.

Genetti's unfinished masterpiece, however, did not figure at all in her dget of news that evening.

Uncle Charley produced a bottle of whisky—a mysteriously brewed brand lich somewhat puzzled but did not deter him—and he and Beauty Bill extend it cautiously, while Mimi chatted of her day's adventures over a bit To Untle Charley the plot was—as his wife insisted upon—almost too

Sir Adrian Shale, through a sympathetic press, had hovered over a dying wife, and finally—proclaiming her dead—had buried her decently.

Of course her body might have been brought home for burial, but frequently it had happened that people who died abroad were buried where they fall. It has happened that people who died abroad were buried where they Il. It has happened over and over again. One has only to go through these little, cypress grown cemeteries to see the fact on their headstones.

Mimi went to Alassio, and had a look at Lady Shale's grave. It was a beautifully kept grave with a fine monument, sultably inscribed. The woman who looked after the English portion of the little cemetery told Mimi that a sum, in perpetuity, had been handed over to the local authorities for the up-keep of the beautiful English lady's grave. At all times were there to be flowers, and at Christmas and Easter there were to be special flowers.

Some more nosing around Alassio, and Mimi discovered other things.

The Shales had been established there for the winter in a villa when the "tragedy" occurred, and the whole household had suffered from the devastating fever. For instance, Lady Shale's faithful old English maid had many concluded that "nearly died.

Mimi concluded that "nearly" was a superfluous word. They had been itended by a not very reputable Italian doctor who had since moved to make and launched out in a big practice, although nobody knew how he suddenly come by so much money. Good Acting Helps Out While Mimi was busy in Alassio, Uncle Charley had returned to London the little Westminster retreat with Doris. It was Uncle Charley's work and out what he could about the supposedly late Lady Shale. Already that had recorded her death, and before her marriage to Sir Adrian she been a widow, a Mrs. Pascal, born Beatrice Hemming, the daughter of a street physician.

Who wouldn't be proud in a Jersild-the sweater college and professional athletes are wearing? Its mannish, "doggy" appearance swells the breast of every young aspirant to athletic fame. Your boy, too, will like its bright coloring and trim snug-fitting lines. Just what he needs for school and for those vigorous after-school games he is playing every day. Whatever the fun, whether it is "one o'cat" or "follow-the-leader" here is one sweater that refuses to be "fanned out" "stumped" or forgotten. A fellow keeps on a comfortable Jersild where he would ordinarily "hafta" take off a tight, binding, suit jacket, and the Jersild is warm without being heavy. Reinforced at all vital pointsesbows, shoulders, buttons, button holes, pockets, it is "game" for any stunt its wearer will attempt.

Before you buy any sweater bring your boy to see the Jersild. You'll find the price you plan on paying buys a lot more value in a Jersild.

There are sizes and styles a plenty, pull-overs and coats with two, three and four pockets. "V" neck and roll collars and a host of attractive colors and color combinations. See your dealer today. Have him show you the Jersild and explain its "Ten Points of Perfection."

STATE OF WURTTEMBERG (GERMANY)

CONSOLIDATED MUNICIPAL EXTERNAL LOAN OF 1925 7% Serial Gold Bonds

Unconditionally guaranteed by the STATE OF WURTTEMBERG, GERMANY as to principal, interest and premium on redemption by endorsement on each bond

Due in equal annual installments Nov. 1, 1926, to Nov. 1, 1945, inclusive

Principal and semi-annual interest, May 1 and November 1, payable in United States gold coin of, or equal to, the present standard of weight and fineness, at the principal office either of The Chase National Bank of the City of New York or of Blair & Co., in New York, as well in time of war as in time of peace irrespective of the nationality of the holder and without deduction for any German Government,

Not redeemable prior to November 1, 1930. On November 1, 1930, and on any interest payment date thereafter, bonds then outstanding are redeemable in whole, or in part by lot irrespective of maturities, at 103 and accrued interest on 8 weeks published notice.

The following information has been taken from statements furnished by Karl Lautenschlager, Esq., Chief Mayor of the City of Stuttgart, and Gottlieb Frank, Esq., representative of the other Associated Municipalities:

DIRECT OBLIGATION: These Bonds will constitute the direct, joint and several obligation of the 23 Cities of the State of Wurttemberg enumerated below and will furthermore be unconditionally guaranteed as to principal, interest and premium on redemption by endorsement of the State of Wurttemberg. The names of such Cities are

Stuttgart Reutlingen Tuttlingen Ebingen

Tuebingen Schwenningen Nuertingen Weingarten

Boeblingen Birkenfeld Hoefen Heilbronn Calmbach Gemuend Esslingen Ravensburg Goeppingen Rottweil

Boeckingen Crailsheim Altensteig

The Cities severally covenant and agree that if while any of the bonds of this issue are by lien or charge on any of its revenues or assets the bonds of this issue shall be secured equally and ratably with such loans or bonds or guarantee.

CITIES OF WURTTEMBERG: The 23 Cities which are obligated on these Bonds have a total population of about 700,000. The most important of them is Stuttgart, with a population of 330,000 ,the capital of the State of Wurttemberg and one of the largest and most important of the cities of Germany as regards trade, industry and culture. The Cities own valuable real estate, public buildings and productive enterprises, including electric light plants, gas works, water works, street railways, etc., which yield large revenues. The value of such municipally owned properties is estimated at more than $100,000,000. Private investments in industrial plants within these Cities are officially estimated to be in excess of $400,000,000, while the value of all properties subject to the several Cities' taxation is estimated at over $1,200,000,000.

FINANCES OF CITIES: The revenues of the 23 Cities for the year 1924 amounted to $27,200,000 and expenditures for the same year amounted to $24,400,000, leaving a net surplus of $2,800,000. This issue will constitute the only external debt of the Cities. The amount of the internal debt cannot be exactly determined until the law fixing the terms of revaluation of municipal obligations heretofore incurred will have had its full effect but it is estimated that the amount of such debt will be between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000. Under the legislation at present in force, passed to give effect to the Dawes Plan, no mortgages have been placed upon any of the public utility properties owned by the Cities.

STATE OF WURTTEMBERG: The State of Wurttemberg, which has a population of about 2,500,000, and an area of 19,500 square kilometers, is the third in size and the fourth in population of the German States. Agriculture, forestry and industrial establishments form the bases of the economic life of the State. Manufacturers comprise widely diversified products which are exported all over the world. The widely known plants of Mercedes and Daimler motors, Bosch magneto works and Zeppelin Aircrafts are located in Wurttemberg. The value of the properties owned by the State is estimated at approximately $119,000,000.

The financial situation of the State is sound. For the year 1924, revenues and expenditures balanced at approximately $26,190,000. The State of Wurttemberg has no external debt and the internal debt is practically nothing, being less than an amount equivalent to $72,000. The State properties and State revenues from taxes and duties are not subject to any charge under the Dawes Plan.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of the bonds issued will be used for the extension and betterment of the Cities' electric light and power plants, gas plants, water works, street railways and other purposes, all of which are designed to increase the municipal revenues.

The financial statistics in this circular are expressed in approximate terms of dollars converted at the rate of 4.20 gold marks to the dollar.

The Time Payment Idea

The time payment idea is all right—the trouble is so many people abuse it.
A little down and instalment payments has been the way many a family has acquired a home, furniture, and other things-some people get the buying habit without reckoning upon the total instalments (sometimes greater than total income).

The Morris Plan is based on the instalment idea - and we have seen loans work wonders to thousands of people: We look with disfavor on applicants for loans who abuse the constructive and practical application of a plan, be it ever so good.

BY HARPER LEECH.

When there were more sheep than age American ate 9 pounds of lamb

Now that there is only one sheep for every three persons, we still eat 5.3 pounds of lamb every year. The popularity of lamb is attested at every butcher shop, where its relatively high price has not served to halt buyers. Sheep and people increased at about same rate in America up to 1885, left sheep raising far behind. But the consumption of lamb has remained fairconstant until the last few years, when a world shortage of sheep reduced world's sheep population is also begin-

Messrs. Edward N. Wentworth and Tage U. Ellinger have published another of their comprehensive brockures on animal industry through the Armour Live Stock bureau. The new one on sheep is -with its tripartite cooperation of man, dog, and sheep-ranks near the top among the civilizers of mankind. The question is often raised whether it will me extinct when there are no more new countries-no more wild lands, into which the shepherd and his flocks may be pushed by the advance of other agri-United States will eventually produce sheep on the farm flock system, like China and Britain, or not at all.

The sheep map of the United States discloses the greatest density of sheep population in the states occupying the rea formerly shown on the maps as the Great American Desert—a most elu-sive thing that always runs away from a railroad. Hundreds of militons of dol-lars' worth of foodstuffs and minerals are now being hauled over rail lines which had to be built with the aid of water hauled in on tank cars. The roads were designed to connect the fertile areas. The search for boiler water brought in artesian wells and irrigation, which are abolishing great chunks of

The center of sheep population is at Imperial, Neb., while the center of hu-man population is still back in Indiana. The sheep industry has advanced west faster than America as a whole and its career has had more violent fluctuations than the average American business The fact that it has two main products, meat and wool, and that wool has always been tied up with tariff politics, has made the sheepman's life anything but a pastoral or an idyil.

An American sheep can seldom be certain for any length of time whether his owner would prefer him to be a wool or a mutton animal. So many become lamb chops, however, that their lives are not troubled with this problem —which beats any of the dilemmas ever invented by writers of problem novels.

"My will names the Illinois Merchants Trust Company"

The confidence expressed by those who place their estates in the hands of our Trust Department is not due alone to the great financial strength and stability of the Illinois Merchants Trust Company. The deep roots of conservative tradition, founded more than a half-century ago in the very heart of this organization, appeal also to every thoughtful person. But more potent possibly than either of these factors in the minds of many is the recognition on the part of our Trust Officers of the human responsibilities involved in every trust.

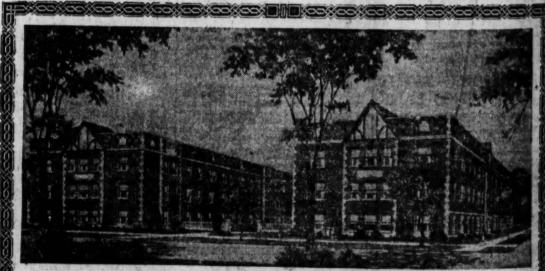

We look upon the estates in our care not merely as so much money, or securities, or property. We regard each trust individually, and in relation to its human aspects. This, we believe, is the secret of the warm and friendly relations which prevail between our staff and those whose interests we serve.

Statement of Roosevelt Bondholders' Protective Committee

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL RAILWAY COMPANY

Daily there are brought to our attention the efforts of the Kuhn, Loeb & Co.-National City Company Reorganization Managers to coerce Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company security holders to deposit under their plan. The Managers and their Committees continue to threaten that unless the securities are deposited by November 20th, penalties will be enforced.

Neither bond nor stock holders need be frightened by this threat. No court will permit a reorganization plan to be put through by force. No Interstate Commerce Commission will approve a plan thus put into operation.

The security holders must be given a fair opportunity to choose between two conflicting plans. They must be permitted carefully to weigh the merits of the two plans now before them and choose the one more favorable to them. If a better plan than either should be proposed, let them adopt that.

We believe we have decidedly the better plan. We are offering bond and stock holders a free choice and we intend to combat to the utmost limits any attempt to deprive them of this choice, either directly or indirectly, by the threat to exact penalties from those who wish to give careful consideration to the respective proposals. We assure the Railway's security holders that we shall stand for and with them.
